

Pink Out Cancer Survivor Celebration

Hunterdon Central Regional High School

Every year the Hunterdon Central Student Council has a Pink Out football game where we bring awareness to breast cancer, and this year we decided to celebrate those who have won their battles with cancer. Cancer survivors were honored and received free admission to the game, as well as VIP seating, flowers, and a huge standing ovation as they paraded onto the field during halftime. The celebration was very successful as it brought the entire community together.

September (1.5 Months Before):
Start planning the event at Student Council meetings.
Divide up responsibilities between members.
Design Pink Out Tee Shirt and order shirts once design is approved

3-4 Weeks Before:
Call a local party store to order two large bundles of pink balloons and pink pom poms.
Call a local Shoprite/Flower Store to order pink carnations.
Call a local Hospital/Medical Center and invite them to the game to promote breast cancer awareness.

Night of Event:
Have Student Council Members wear pink.
Right before halftime; organize the survivors and their families down by the field.
Hand out flowers.
Escort the survivors onto the field for their recognition!

1 Month Before:
Invite the school you will be playing to participate in the Pink Out and the Survivor's Celebration at halftime.
Create and distribute a Google Doc asking for names of cancer survivors being honored at the Pink Out football game.

Week of Event:
Sell Pink Out Tee Shirts during lunch/after school.
Pick up balloons, flowers, etc.
Write an announcement to be read as the survivors take the field.
Make a banner to designate where the VIP seating is for the survivors and their families.
